

Evan K

Life of a Star

My Nebula a ball of gas releases me a star

My later light will shine to Planets, sightings from a distant Shore

Red supergiant I become: so large and full of might to supernova in the end a sight of brightness bright

A blackhole sucking light that I have now become,

And in these moments, of despair light dawns upon another sun.